

ECLAC would like to know case studies of impact investments for sustainable development in Brazil

The United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), through its Brazil Office, invites researchers, private sector professionals, entrepreneurs, representatives of civil society, policymakers and civil servants to submit cases studies on impact investments for sustainable development in Brazil, which will be part of the "Big Push for Sustainability in Brazil" project.

Which case studies?

We would like to know case studies of experiences and initiatives of actions, measures, plans, strategies, programs, projects, policies, etc. which contributed to boost a set of investments aimed at providing greater economic, social and environmental sustainability at the local or national level.

To be eligible as cases of "Big Push for Sustainability", studies must report at least one indicator of each dimension of sustainable development (economic, social, and environmental) which are detailed in the rules of the present call.

Visibility

All studies eligible as cases of Big Push for Sustainability will be part of a REPOSITORY.

The most transformative case studies towards socioeconomic and environmental sustainability will be RECOGNIZED in a publication, which is planned to be presented at a parallel event at the UNFCCC COP25 in Santiago, Chile.

KEY DATES

- Deadline for submission of summarised case studies to CEPAL.Brasilia@cepal.org: August 11th
- Validation of eligible studies as cases of Big Push cases for Sustainability: October 13th
- Announcement of the selection of the most transformative case studies: November 11th
- Parallel event (to be confirmed) at UNFCCC COP25: December
